Acquisition Information

The Don Irwin Collection was donated to the Palmer Museum of History and Art by Judith Boss on March 14, 2015.

Biographical Note

Don Irwin was the Director of the Matanuska Experiment Station when the Matanuska Colony Project began in Palmer. He became the first manager of the colony and later served in that position again. He continued to live in the Matanuska Valley for many years.

Scope and Content of Collection

The Don Irwin Collection, provided by Judith Boss, consists of over 2,500 photo prints, slides, negatives, lantern slides, and documents relating to the Matanuska Colony Project and activity at the Matanuska Experiment Farm. The dates of the photographs range from 1898 to 1964, and include pictures of Palmer, Anchorage, Fairbanks, Wasilla, Hurricane Gulch, Curry, College, Matanuska, Sitka, Kodiak, Eklutna, Cordova, Healy, Eska, Dunbar, Hoonah, Dawson City, Unalakleet, McGrath, Chandalar, Chilkoot Pass, Juneau, Nome, Petersburg, Fort Yukon, Whitehorse, and homesteads and homesteaders in the Matanuska Valley.

Individuals pictured include the Irwin family, Robert Service, the Albrecht family, the Snodgrass family, the Anderson family, the Pippel family, the Johnson family, the Wimmer family, Dr. George W. Gasser, Ernest Gruening, Walter Hickel, and many others who have been identified, as well as other people as yet unidentified. The majority of this collection focuses on Matanuska Experiment Farm and the surrounding area.

There are copies of some files that have been enhanced as higher resolution files used in the Matanuska Valley Historic Photo Project.
