Alaska Perils Have Altered
Men Get Their Guns
Bring Down — of All
Things—an Aviator

BY ARVILLE SCHALLEN
OF THE JOURNAL STAFF
Palmer, Alaska—A heavy cloud of mosquitoes hung around the tents of the Alaskan colonists, but they had given up their search for the "blue fox" and were content with the "blue ghost." They were content because they had found the "blue ghost" and were satisfied with the property which they had been allotted in Alaska. A heavy cloud of mosquitoes hung around the tents of the Alaskan colonists, but they had given up their search for the "blue fox" and were content with the "blue ghost." They were content because they had found the "blue ghost" and were satisfied with the property which they had been allotted in Alaska.

The ambitious settlers are almost unanimous in desiring themselves satisfied with the property which they have been allotted in Alaska. A heavy cloud of mosquitoes hung around the tents of the Alaskan colonists, but they had given up their search for the "blue fox" and were content with the "blue ghost." They were content because they had found the "blue ghost" and were satisfied with the property which they had been allotted in Alaska.

The ambitious settlers are almost unanimous in desiring themselves satisfied with the property which they have been allotted in Alaska. A heavy cloud of mosquitoes hung around the tents of the Alaskan colonists, but they had given up their search for the "blue fox" and were content with the "blue ghost." They were content because they had found the "blue ghost" and were satisfied with the property which they had been allotted in Alaska.

The ambitious settlers are almost unanimous in desiring themselves satisfied with the property which they have been allotted in Alaska. A heavy cloud of mosquitoes hung around the tents of the Alaskan colonists, but they had given up their search for the "blue fox" and were content with the "blue ghost." They were content because they had found the "blue ghost" and were satisfied with the property which they had been allotted in Alaska.

The ambitious settlers are almost unanimous in desiring themselves satisfied with the property which they have been allotted in Alaska. A heavy cloud of mosquitoes hung around the tents of the Alaskan colonists, but they had given up their search for the "blue fox" and were content with the "blue ghost." They were content because they had found the "blue ghost" and were satisfied with the property which they had been allotted in Alaska.

The ambitious settlers are almost unanimous in desiring themselves satisfied with the property which they have been allotted in Alaska. A heavy cloud of mosquitoes hung around the tents of the Alaskan colonists, but they had given up their search for the "blue fox" and were content with the "blue ghost." They were content because they had found the "blue ghost" and were satisfied with the property which they had been allotted in Alaska.

The ambitious settlers are almost unanimous in desiring themselves satisfied with the property which they have been allotted in Alaska. A heavy cloud of mosquitoes hung around the tents of the Alaskan colonists, but they had given up their search for the "blue fox" and were content with the "blue ghost." They were content because they had found the "blue ghost" and were satisfied with the property which they had been allotted in Alaska.

The ambitious settlers are almost unanimous in desiring themselves satisfied with the property which they have been allotted in Alaska. A heavy cloud of mosquitoes hung around the tents of the Alaskan colonists, but they had given up their search for the "blue fox" and were content with the "blue ghost." They were content because they had found the "blue ghost" and were satisfied with the property which they had been allotted in Alaska.

The ambitious settlers are almost unanimous in desiring themselves satisfied with the property which they have been allotted in Alaska. A heavy cloud of mosquitoes hung around the tents of the Alaskan colonists, but they had given up their search for the "blue fox" and were content with the "blue ghost." They were content because they had found the "blue ghost" and were satisfied with the property which they had been allotted in Alaska.

The ambitious settlers are almost unanimous in desiring themselves satisfied with the property which they have been allotted in Alaska. A heavy cloud of mosquitoes hung around the tents of the Alaskan colonists, but they had given up their search for the "blue fox" and were content with the "blue ghost." They were content because they had found the "blue ghost" and were satisfied with the property which they had been allotted in Alaska.

The ambitious settlers are almost unanimous in desiring themselves satisfied with the property which they have been allotted in Alaska. A heavy cloud of mosquitoes hung around the tents of the Alaskan colonists, but they had given up their search for the "blue fox" and were content with the "blue ghost." They were content because they had found the "blue ghost" and were satisfied with the property which they had been allotted in Alaska.

The ambitious settlers are almost unanimous in desiring themselves satisfied with the property which they have been allotted in Alaska. A heavy cloud of mosquitoes hung around the tents of the Alaskan colonists, but they had given up their search for the "blue fox" and were content with the "blue ghost." They were content because they had found the "blue ghost" and were satisfied with the property which they had been allotted in Alaska.

The ambitious settlers are almost unanimous in desiring themselves satisfied with the property which they have been allotted in Alaska. A heavy cloud of mosquitoes hung around the tents of the Alaskan colonists, but they had given up their search for the "blue fox" and were content with the "blue ghost." They were content because they had found the "blue ghost" and were satisfied with the property which they had been allotted in Alaska.

The ambitious settlers are almost unanimous in desiring themselves satisfied with the property which they have been allotted in Alaska. A heavy cloud of mosquitoes hung around the tents of the Alaskan colonists, but they had given up their search for the "blue fox" and were content with the "blue ghost." They were content because they had found the "blue ghost" and were satisfied with the property which they had been allotted in Alaska.

The ambitious settlers are almost unanimous in desiring themselves satisfied with the property which they have been allotted in Alaska. A heavy cloud of mosquitoes hung around the tents of the Alaskan colonists, but they had given up their search for the "blue fox" and were content with the "blue ghost." They were content because they had found the "blue ghost" and were satisfied with the property which they had been allotted in Alaska.

The ambitious settlers are almost unanimous in desiring themselves satisfied with the property which they have been allotted in Alaska. A heavy cloud of mosquitoes hung around the tents of the Alaskan colonists, but they had given up their search for the "blue fox" and were content with the "blue ghost." They were content because they had found the "blue ghost" and were satisfied with the property which they had been allotted in Alaska.

The ambitious settlers are almost unanimous in desiring themselves satisfied with the property which they have been allotted in Alaska. A heavy cloud of mosquitoes hung around the tents of the Alaskan colonists, but they had given up their search for the "blue fox" and were content with the "blue ghost." They were content because they had found the "blue ghost" and were satisfied with the property which they had been allotted in Alaska.

The ambitious settlers are almost unanimous in desiring themselves satisfied with the property which they have been allotted in Alaska. A heavy cloud of mosquitoes hung around the tents of the Alaskan colonists, but they had given up their search for the "blue fox" and were content with the "blue ghost." They were content because they had found the "blue ghost" and were satisfied with the property which they had been allotted in Alaska.

The ambitious settlers are almost unanimous in desiring themselves satisfied with the property which they have been allotted in Alaska. A heavy cloud of mosquitoes hung around the tents of the Alaskan colonists, but they had given up their search for the "blue fox" and were content with the "blue ghost." They were content because they had found the "blue ghost" and were satisfied with the property which they had been allotted in Alaska.

The ambitious settlers are almost unanimous in desiring themselves satisfied with the property which they have been allotted in Alaska. A heavy cloud of mosquitoes hung around the tents of the Alaskan colonists, but they had given up their search for the "blue fox" and were content with the "blue ghost." They were content because they had found the "blue ghost" and were satisfied with the property which they had been allotted in Alaska.

The ambitious settlers are almost unanimous in desiring themselves satisfied with the property which they have been allotted in Alaska. A heavy cloud of mosquitoes hung around the tents of the Alaskan colonists, but they had given up their search for the "blue fox" and were content with the "blue ghost." They were content because they had found the "blue ghost" and were satisfied with the property which they had been allotted in Alaska.

The ambitious settlers are almost unanimous in desiring themselves satisfied with the property which they have been allotted in Alaska. A heavy cloud of mosquitoes hung around the tents of the Alaskan colonists, but they had given up their search for the "blue fox" and were content with the "blue ghost." They were content because they had found the "blue ghost" and were satisfied with the property which they had been allotted in Alaska.

The ambitious settlers are almost unanimous in desiring themselves satisfied with the property which they have been allotted in Alaska. A heavy cloud of mosquitoes hung around the tents of the Alaskan colonists, but they had given up their search for the "blue fox" and were content with the "blue ghost." They were content because they had found the "blue ghost" and were satisfied with the property which they had been allotted in Alaska.

The ambitious settlers are almost unanimous in desiring themselves satisfied with the property which they have been allotted in Alaska. A heavy cloud of mosquitoes hung around the tents of the Alaskan colonists, but they had given up their search for the "blue fox" and were content with the "blue ghost." They were content because they had found the "blue ghost" and were satisfied with the property which they had been allotted in Alaska.