Max Sherrod, Now Living
In Alaska, Proud Possessor of Snapshot Taken
When Famous Pair Visited
At Palmer.

One of the pictures ever taken of Will Rogers, the American cowboy-philosopher, and Will F. Wheeler, who killed near Point Barrow, Alaska, was snapped by a Haskell Creek woman, N. J. M. Halloway.

The photograph was taken by Mrs. Sherrod who accompanied her daughter, Janet, went to Alaska because of the federal rehabilitation colony located near the village of Naknek.

It was taken after a brief visit to the Alaska colony. The pictures of the famous pair had apparently been lost.

Will Rogers, as he appears in the picture, was a strapping young man with a light weight.

Gives a bit of a character to the subject, but both have been turned to the camera.

EAT AND LEAVE FOR PALMER

REPORTED TO RETURN HERE THIS AFTERNOON

Strung out on the train at Anchorage, Will Rogers and Will F. Wheeler, two of the famous pair, were reported to return here this afternoon.

The two men were in Anchorage last Saturday, and were to have returned to Palmer soon after.

They were seen in the Anchorage hotel last Saturday night, and were last seen in the hotel at about 9 o'clock.

Will Rogers, as he appears in the picture, was a man of medium height, with light hair and blue eyes.

A photograph was taken of the famous pair at Anchorage, and was later sent to the colony.

Will Rogers was reported to have been in Anchorage for a short time, and was seen in the hotel last Saturday night.

The photograph was taken by Mrs. Halloway, who accompanied her daughter, Janet, to Alaska because of the federal rehabilitation colony located near the village of Naknek.

The pictures of the famous pair had apparently been lost.

Will Rogers, as he appears in the picture, was a strapping young man with a light weight.

Gives a bit of a character to the subject, but both have been turned to the camera.

BEFORE HE GOES

PLANNED ON TO SIBERIA

Will Rogers and Will F. Wheeler were in the hotel at 9 o'clock last night and were last seen at Point Barrow at 9 o'clock this morning.

The two men were reported to have left for Siberia today.

They were last seen at Point Barrow at 9 o'clock this morning.

The two men were reported to have left for Siberia today.

The two men were reported to have left for Siberia today.

They were last seen at Point Barrow at 9 o'clock this morning.

The two men were reported to have left for Siberia today.