

He Who Writes Proverbs Must Have A Pencil

Special To The Times

PALMER — "Flying to New York is better than walking. Walking is for the birds."

Mrs. Elaine Wondrasek, a sixth grade teacher at Central School in Palmer, assigned her students the task of writing proverbs, and some of the results, as the one quoted above, gave Solomon some pretty fair competition.

Here are a few of the others:

Who Goes up, better know how to get down.

If you have a female cat, prepare yourself.

If you can't stand the smell, take out the garbage.

You can't judge your mom by her mouth.

Shadow boxing is fun as long as you don't get too close to the wall.

If you want to be a basketball player, think big.

In you don't like school, graduate.
