McIntyre is such a reality in this day and age that it is refreshing to stumble suddenly upon it.

Until "above" the town, while getting proper papers for her marriage to Eugene Sedille, had to answer certain questions about her parents. No one here had the least suspicion that she enjoyed the distinction of a French title.

There isn't a portion of doubt but what our residential nurse knew her as keeping mum. The very dignity of "Countess" would have completely the man close friendship she has made here.

Now Mrs. Eugene Sedille, formerly Countess de Fornes, still sedans to those she knew her as an amiable and industrious exponent of all that her unselfish organization, the Red Cross, stands for.

"Why is it that so many bosses disregard the fairness of giving a working man a civil answer to an intelligent question? Is it that they have never worked themselves? Do they think that because a man is working with his hands that he is some kind of lower being, unworthy of anything better? If so, some of the officious ones on this job are badly mistaken.

There are ten working here at jobs which carry no premium on brains the few graduates of some of the best business schools; men who on other construction jobs have proven their ability to handle others and to get things properly done without a waste of money. Why should such men... or why should any man... be taxed at across bar by someone who is receivable as a boss only because he gets more money?"

HOUSE WARS AT MURCUS

Last week-end saw many gatherings for the purpose of christening new homes.

At 'Little Hecla,' George Novak's place, a large crowd assembled to dance to Hank Lasko's good music, and to cut the cake of Mr. Novak's tasty lunch. At others the homecoming party were Jack Lund, Saul Jahr and birthday party of 31 guests for Mrs. Glen Dougherty at their home on tract 36.
HEALTH EDUCATION AT SCHOOL.

Despite disagreeable weather on the date set for physical examinations, 35 children reported at Dr. Albrecht's office. This shows a marked interest by the parents in our program of health education.

On another day 40 children were examined at the Basilia school, where, through the courtesy of the corporation, resident children whose families are in no way connected with the colonization project also came under Dr. Albrecht's observation. Miss Baker, Mary Brown and Elizabeth Clegg assisted in the recording of results.

No serious conditions were uncovered, though it was found that a number of the children were afflicted with enlarged tonsils.

This program of health control was organized by Madeline de Forno, who came with the colony as Red Cross Public Health Nurse.

Once weekly Miss de Forno visits the villages of Basilia and Talkeetna as a precautionary measure against any contagious illness or infectious skin condition getting a start without being noticed by those not trained in the work.

Physical inspections for all grades are held each week by the teachers.

This is good health education and should have the support of all parents.

The wrestling and boxing card scheduled to be held here under the auspices of the American Legion on Saturday the 26th, has been postponed one week, by which time it is expected there will be a more complete list of those who have arrived. The transportation has been arranged for and a good show is promised.

As a special event the Johansen will box four rounds with Bob Williams. This is an added attraction not included in our former announce-

"ASMRN" holes, ex-Very champion, will tangle with Kid Walser of the Alaskaon Exon. This match is in the middle weight division.

The main event will be for the best two out of three falls between the heavies, "Alaska Jake" Anderson and the Alaskan Mystery Man. It is impossible to ascertain the name or this dark horse, but Pete seems to think he will have a job on his hands when they start twirling each other into knots next Saturday, November the 3rd.

"ASMRN: Loose dogs have been killing chickens and running stock belonging to farmers in the neighborhood. Unless your dog is at your heel or at home all the time keep him on a chain.

TO GRAY A VEIL - NOT PONY

The three colonists upon whose farms Forrest Carlson's well was this week is very lucky that he didn't just move right on by and set up there preparations and had been made.

In spite of the two recent published instructions to have a space 15 feet square leveled off and to have a hole 5 feet square down to a depth of 6 feet, he found nothing done at any of the three places.

Now this is a tip, fellows. Get your well site in shape. You may be next on the list, and if you run into a condition where he has to put high price drillers to digging while a rig stands idle he will move right on to the next tract to be drilled.

And there is nothing unfair about that. Plenty of varnish has been given previously. This is the last.
